

AARUPADAI VEEDU MEDICAL COLLEGE & HOSPITAL

KIRUMAMAPAKKAM, PUDUCHERRY – 607 403.

Department of General Surgery

WORLD CANCER DAY – 11.02.2017

In observance of the World cancer day, a public awareness programme was conducted by the Department of General Surgery, Aarupadai Veedu Medical College & Hospital, in the OPD reception Hall. Around 200 people gathered and attended the programme. Dr.B.Kanchana, MS., Professor and Head, Department of General Surgery, welcomed the gathering. She explained that the detection of cancer at early stage helps curing the disease. There are some habits when avoided can prevent cancer. The Dean, Dr.Maharaja, MS, DLO, gave the presidential address. He informed that several investigations are available at low cost for the benefit of patients in Aarupadai Veedu Medical College & Hospital and advised the patients to utilize the services.

Dr.Chellapillai, MD, DMRT, Medical Superintendent and radiation oncologist gave the key note address. He emphasized regular screening is essential after certain age group to detect early cancer. Specialists and special investigations are available in Aarupadai Veedu Medical College & Hospital. Surgeries are done efficiently at a very low cost here. Detection of cancer, cervix cancer and breast cancer at early stages leads to cure. Avoid smoking and tobacco to prevent cancer. Maintenance of personal hygiene was emphasized. Questions were raised by the patients and Dr.Chellapillai, MD, DMRT, cleared their doubts. Posters on awareness of cancer detection were displayed in the reception counter. Vote of thanks was proposed by Dr.Vigil, MS., Surgical Registrar, AVMC & H.

Dignitaries on the Dias

Participants